WE, the Class of '32, lovingly dedicate this volume of The Marshallite to MISS MARY LOWNDES PEPLE, Sponsor—Comrade—Friend, who did so much in guiding us through the troublous waters of our high school years to the happy harbor of graduation.

FOREWORD

AS a theme for our "Annual" we have chosen one which should, and we trust it will, be of value to all readers interested in the development of the American school system.

On the main division pages of this book, we have endeavored to portray the major steps in the growth of schools in the United States. First, we see the Dutch school of the North during the Knickerbocker Period, then the Tutor Era in the South. Our next step, the Civil War period, is represented by the cadets of Virginia Military Institute. We have pictured them in the Battle of New Market, in which battle they played so memorable a part. During the next twenty years we progress from the one room school of 1875 characterized by the typical spelling bee to the era of 1895. By this time school athletics were becoming quite popular; hence, the choice of an athletic subject. The modern trend of education is represented by the introduction of aviation into some of our colleges. Looking into the future, we imply the use of motion pictures for teaching purposes.

As all its people are caught in the grip of education, our Nation grows and progresses!

The School

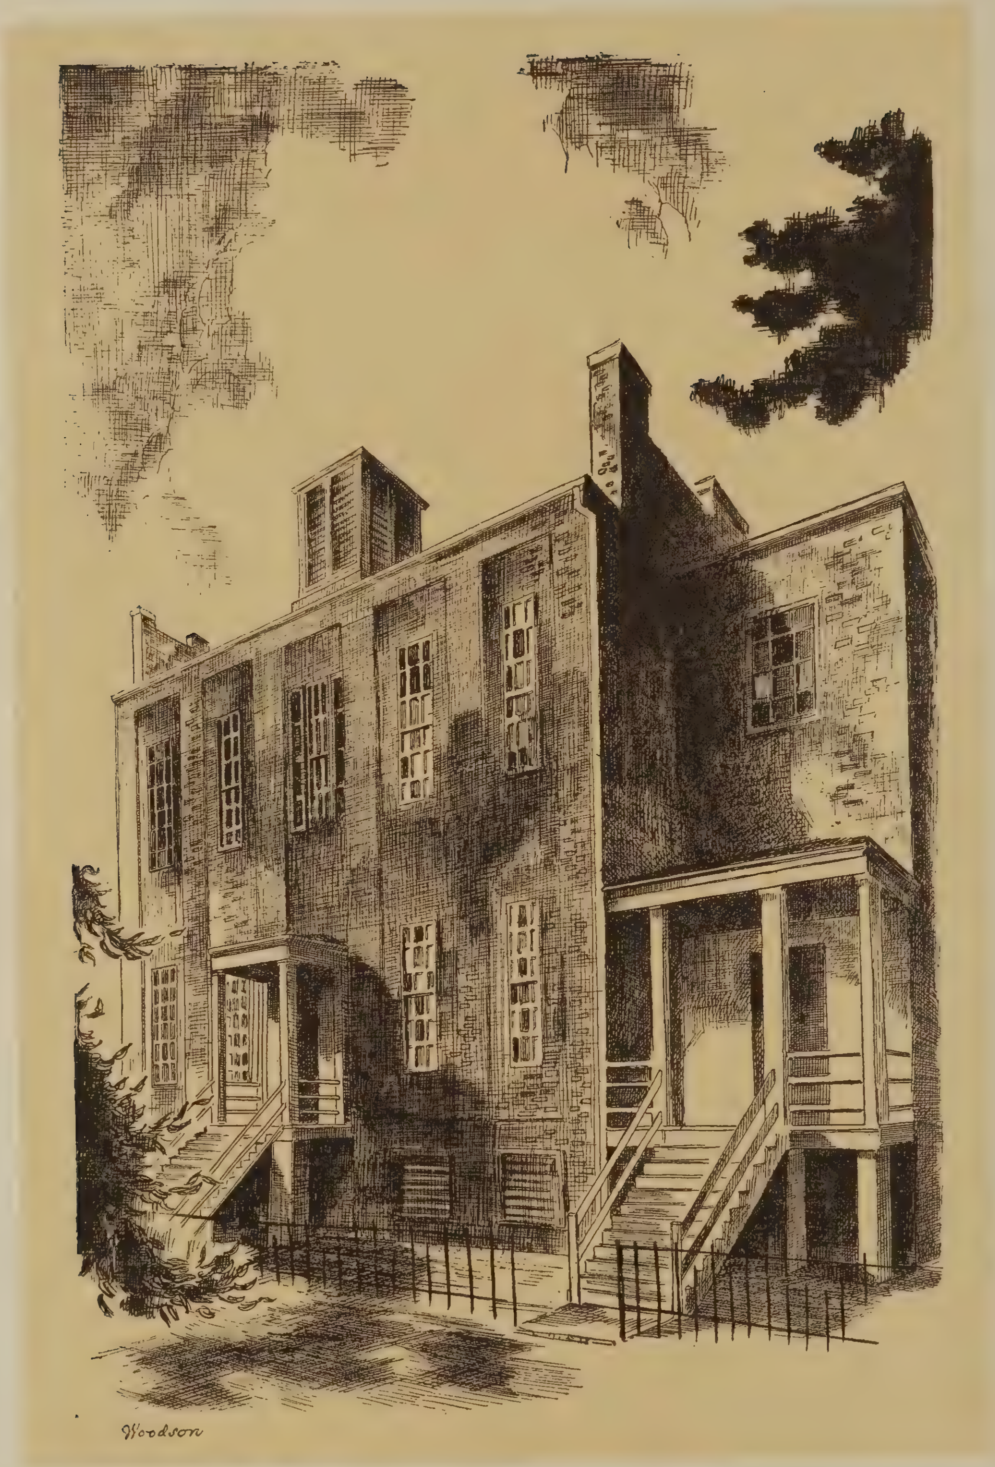
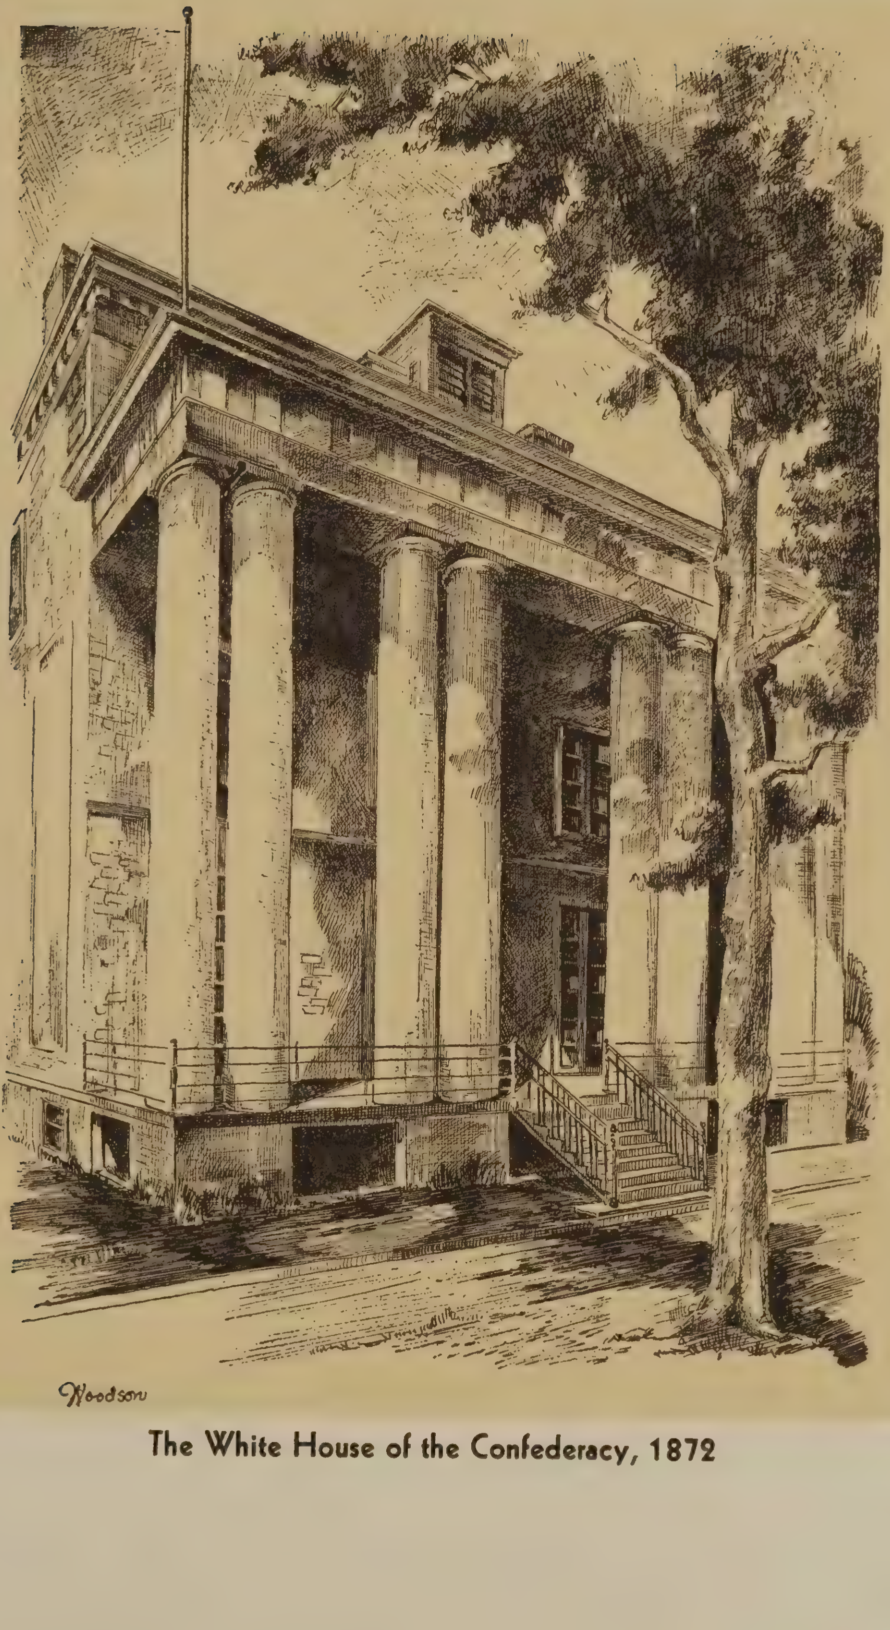
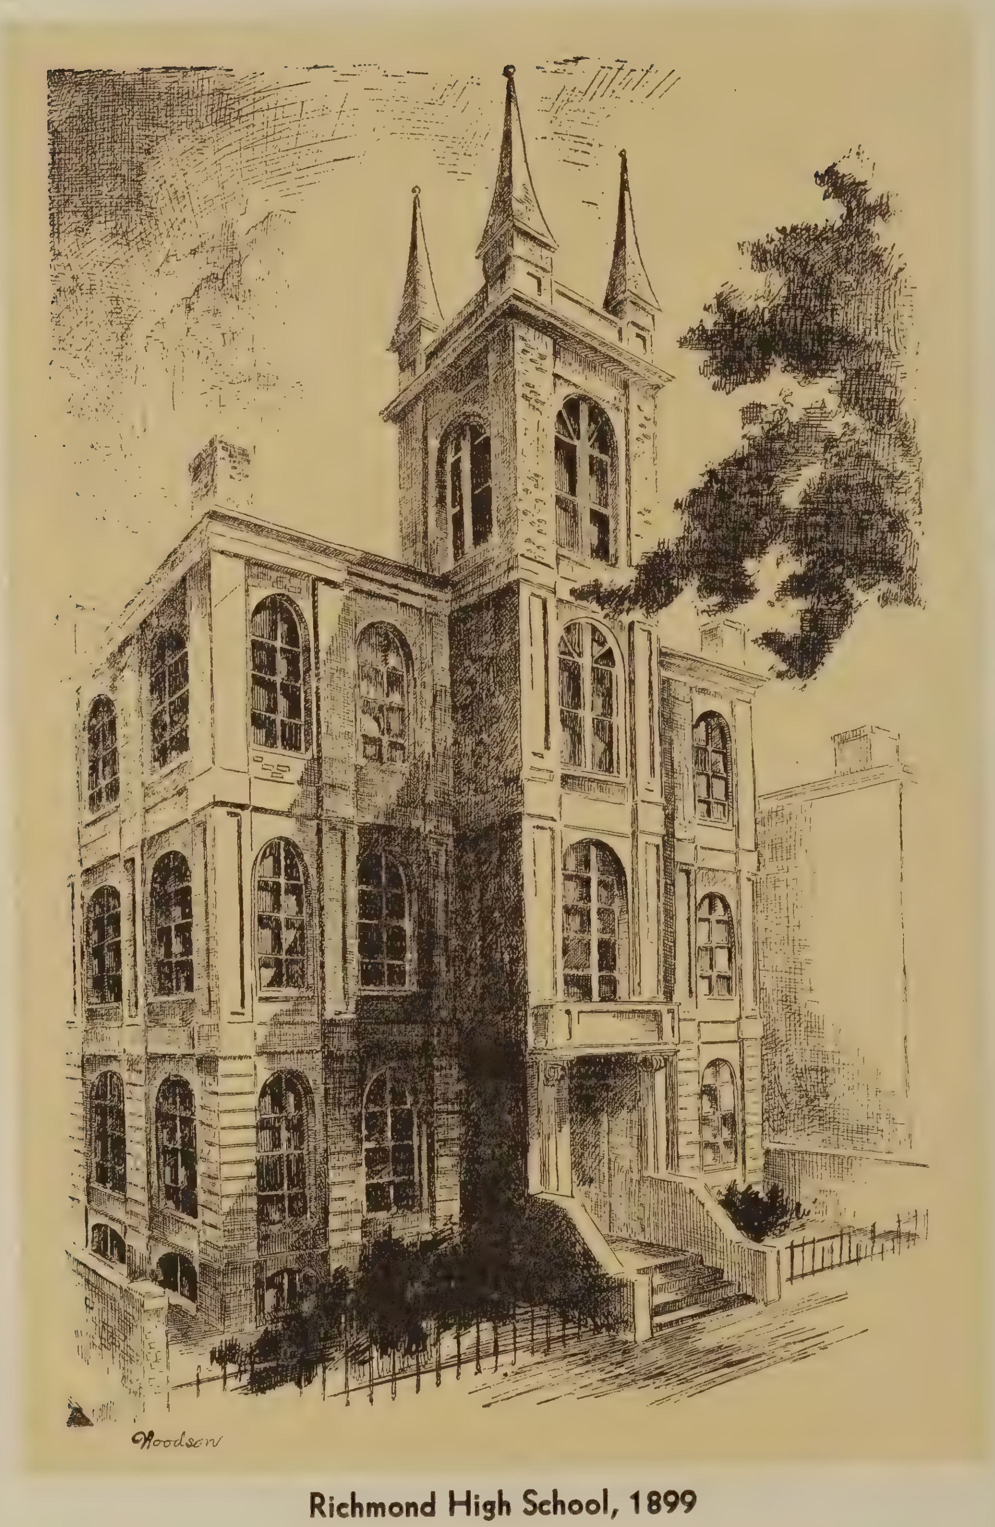
JOHN MARSHALL HIGH SCHOOL represents the climax of a century of growth of free secondary schools in Richmond. In 1816, the first public school, the Lancasterian, was opened, where the rich paid a fee while the poor were taught free of charge. After the Civil War, the White House of the Confederacy was turned into a public school institution for both primary and secondary students. The next school in succession was Richmond High School which served for nine years after its construction in 1899. By 1908 the public school idea had become so popular that a more adequate structure was needed; thus, John Marshall High School came into existence. Even the space thus provided was not sufficient. In 1922 Richmond High School and several houses flanking it were torn down and George Wythe was erected in their places. At the present time the combined rooms of John Marshall and George Wythe provide high school instruction for the eastern, northern, and southern sections of Richmond. The "Marshallite" of '32 presents, on the following pages, these steps which constitute a century of development.



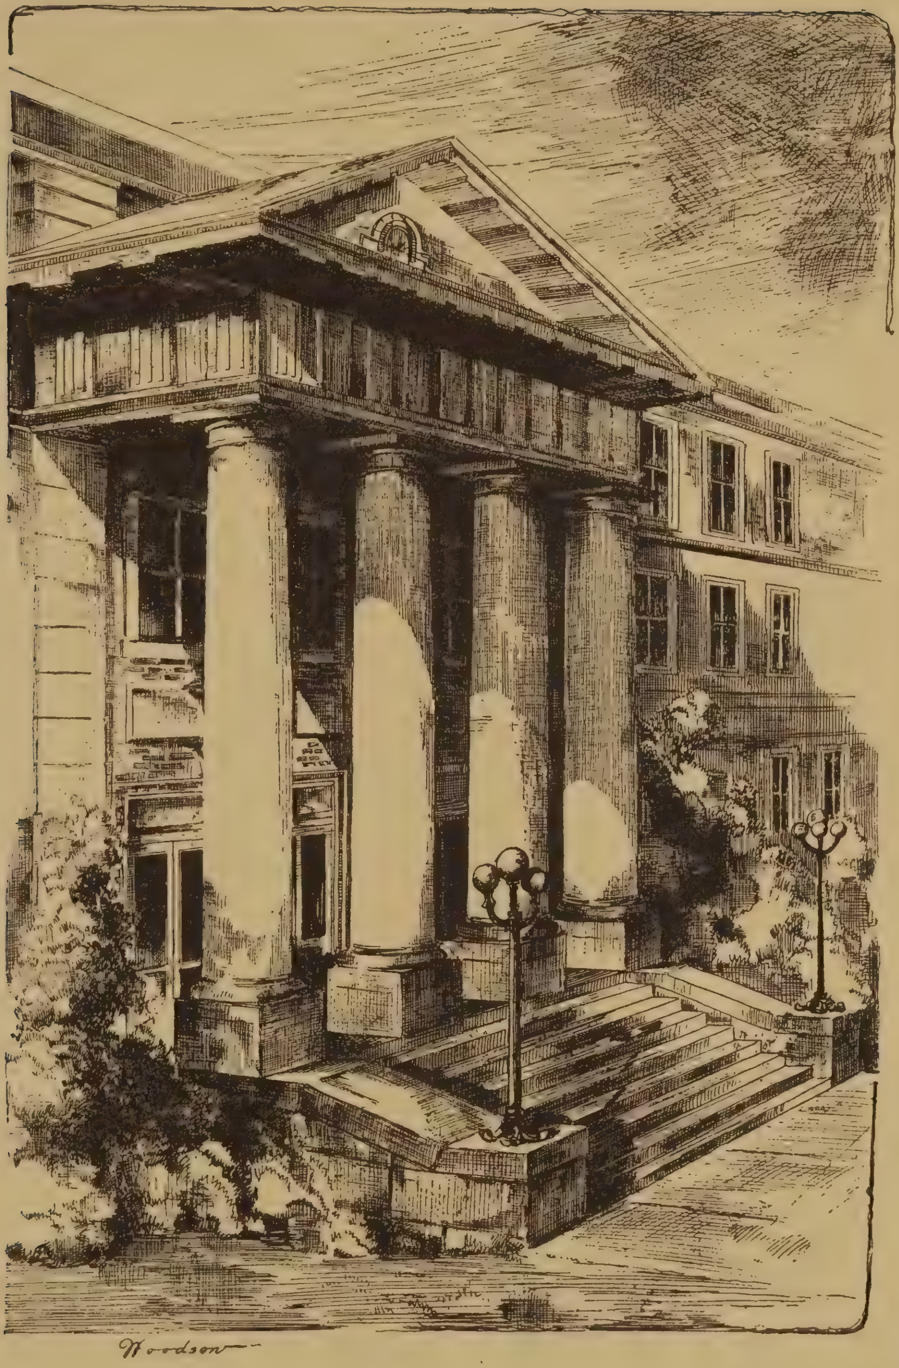
The Lancasterian School, 1816



The White House of the Confederacy, 1872



Richmond High School, 1899



John Marshall High School, 1908

Our School, 1872-1932

1872 The Richmond High School established in rented rooms on Broad Street, between Ninth and Tenth; William F. Fox, principal, and two assistants.

Course of study the same for all pupils. Covered three years, and included mathematics, science, Latin, French, German, history, and English. A review of the work of the grammar grades was required, and some instruction given in mental science, civil government, political economy, and bookkeeping.

1873 First high school building opened on October 1. It was situated at 805 East Marshall Street, and originally had eight rooms and an assembly hall. Capacity, 274 pupils. Cost, $40,000.

1875 First graduating class, six boys and eight girls, in June of this year.

1881 Addition of eight rooms and a basement. There were several subsequent additions.

1887 Post graduate year added. This included much pedagogical work and was the germ of the City Normal School.

1889 William A. Bowles became principal upon appointment of Mr. Fox as superintendent of schools.

1890 Julian P. Thomas succeeded Mr. Bowles, resigned.

1891 Two-year business course begun.

1892 Stenography and typewriting added to the curriculum.

1893 First cooking class begun.

1894 Building again over-crowded. Began renting rooms outside.

Before new building was completed the school occupied all available space in the high school building, the John Marshall House, and the old Jefferson Club.

1905 James C. Harwood succeeded Mr. Thomas, resigned.

Work of teachers specialized. Previous to this teachers taught any subjects assigned to them by the principal.

1907 First separation of program of studies into curricula.

Course extended to four years for all graduates. Requirements for teachers in high school established—college degree and two years of successful experience.

1908 Ground broken for new building March 24. Corner stone laid September 30.

1909 Moved into new building before it was completed, September, 1909. New building dedicated December 9, 1909. Seating capacity, about 1,500; cost (grounds, building, and equipment) $575,000.

Post graduate course extended to two years, and became the teachers' training department.

Name of school changed to John Marshall High School.

1910 Manual training and domestic science added to program of studies. Two practice classes added to the teachers' training department.

September, 1910, promotion by subject introduced.

Manchester High School absorbed April 15. Alumni Association organized; Stephen T.

Beveridge, a member of the first graduating class, president; Nellie D. Spence, class of '95; secretary; Alvin Hutzler, '04, treasurer.

1911 First class graduated in four-year course, January, 1911.

In September, 1911, teachers' training department moved to William F. Fox School, and became the City Normal School.

First vacation school.

1912 Library established and librarian appointed. Free text book system introduced September, 1912. Spanish added to program of studies.

1913 Elective course introduced.

1915 Absorbed Highland Park and Barton Heights High Schools.

John Marshall Cadet Corps formed; Edwin P. Conquest, first commandant.

Junior high schools established.

1916 Supervised study introduced. Rosemary Library moved to this school.

1918 Twenty-two male teachers furloughed for military duty and five hundred alumni of the school "in the service."

Trade courses introduced.

Work in piano music done by pupils outside of school hours recognized and credited.

School cafeteria opened.

Influenza epidemic occurred. School closed October 4. Became a hospital October 7. Re-opened for school purposes November 7.

1920 Bronze tablet in memory of sixteen alumni who fell in the Great War dedicated. This was a gift from the Patriotic Society of the school.

1921 Credit allowed for violin work.

On account of lack of space a two-session day made necessary—pupils of third and fourth years, 8:20 to 12:00; pupils of first and second years, 12:30 to 4:10.

Close of 50th year, 96 teachers, 2,631 pupils.

1923 First Senior Class picnic held.

1924 Rosemary Library removed from John Marshall High School to new city library.

1926 "The Blue and White," first school song written by pupils, presented to school. Words by Aileen Traylor; music by Hilton Rufty.

1927 Visiting Teacher added to faculty. Her work to interpret the school to the home and the home to the school.

1928 Double session in George Wythe due to overcrowded conditions in school.

1929 Sight-saving class added to curriculum, purpose of which is to give aid in studies to those pupils who have poor eye sight.

"The Monocle," first weekly publication of John Marshall High School, begun.

1930 John Marshall returned to one-session day on account of the opening in the west end of the city, of the new Thomas Jefferson High School.

Senior Class History

AS SENIORS, the privileged characters at John Marshall in '32, we have much new ahead, but before we fare forth on the highways of life, let us look back with reminiscent glimpses on the road we have already traveled with its four milestones. The scenery has been gorgeous, the journey never tiresome. We have been cheered on the way by numerous good times and heartened by many friendly contacts.

With the realization that "our task is to prepare in the days of our youth to do things well," we set out to cover the first mile. The road has many turns and difficult spots. We ask Miss Mary Peple to be our guide and under her able leadership we elect the following officers: Harry Flood Byrd, Jr., president; Garnett Smith, vice-president; Hazel Cox, secretary; Tom Pettigrew, treasurer; Marie Duling, reporter; and Kenneth Hargrave, historian.

Up bright and early on account of the shifts, the officers marching in front plan a fine picnic to Bryan Park. Wieners, wieners, food, and more food! (It is noticeable that some merrymakers drop behind for a few days.) On a boulder in the park we carve the name and date of our class, "Freshmen—1928." We now resume our journey and all goes smoothly until obstructions in the highway in the form of exams seem insurmountable to some while others go ahead joyfully and write their names triumphantly on the first milestone. They stop for a three months' rest, amused by every type of sport and fun, until those left behind shall complete the detour.

As sophomores, seasoned travelers, knowing well "the lights that warn and guide the traveler," we continue our march. Miss Peple again leads the procession, but this time different officers are chosen to walk on her right and left. Kenneth Cherry is president; Maxwell Wright, vice-president; Jean Faulkner, secretary; Fred B. Bates, Jr., treasurer; Leon King, reporter; and Patty Sheain, historian. On account of the crowded condition of the road some travel in the morning, the rest in the afternoon, but all join around the campfire at night for fun and frolic. Some nights informal playlets and dialogues are presented, and others, dances. A fine orchestra is obtained, and the sophomores dance with the juniors until the clock strikes twelve. After numbers of other warm, bright, eventful days, we dance again but this time as hosts to the seniors. The ballroom is beautifully decorated with purple and white, our class colors.

Next we came upon a toll gate opening into a gorgeous castle—Leisure—but the admission is knowledge, and some who have played too often by the wayside must take a side path and meet us on the other side, three months later, while we revel in the castle and its gardens, having passed the second milestone.

With enthusiasm we realize that "the road that leads to success is widening more and more," as we enter our junior year—our third length. At an early, peppy election the following are declared officers: Fred B. Bates, Jr., president; Elizabeth Ashburn, vice-president; Mary Eleanor Whitehead, secretary; Harvey Glass, treasurer; Gay Rhodes, reporter; and Mitchell Farrar, historian. The journeys are less arduous now.

We find more time for entertainment, especially in the late afternoon. The first amusement is a variety vaudeville by the Junior-Sophomore Classes followed after several weeks by a dance also sponsored by the combined efforts of these two classes. Talent is discovered among the boys, and a radio program by an all-star gentleman cast is presented during one of the intervals in the midst of lessons and preparation for Christmas. A short time is taken off in January for a night club entertainment to strengthen the pilgrims to run successfully the gauntlet of mid-term examinations. Most come out unscathed with plenty of enthusiasm for the greatest event on a junior's calendar—Junior Stunt Night. That night, March 27, never to be forgotten!—"The Knave of Hearts" steals tarts and hearts. Characters from the ancient Mother Goose Rhyme parade before the audience in all their regal splendor and afterwards retire to the Wythe Gym for the juniors' farewell dance to the seniors. Colored lights flash hither and yonder while a gay evening throng sway backward and forward to the strains of divine music. Oh, beauty and gaiety untold!

Then comes the test of whether we travelers have gained sufficient knowledge of scout work, woodcraft, and foreign tongues to enable us to be freely trusted to the perils of the last lap. While the successful ones gaily attach their names to the third milestone, those less fortunate are busy catching up what they have missed. A three months' holiday is declared and some fill in the time with rest and fine times while others work hard to be ready to begin on the last step of the high school ladder.

Our experience is thrilling as we come slowly into the understanding that we are now the tried and trusted scouts—seniors of John Marshall High School! We select as our officers and leaders Henry Riley, president; Frances Bates, vice-president; Jean Faulkner, secretary; Mason Pace, treasurer; Margaret Van Oot, reporter; and Mary Eleanor Whitehead, historian. Under these and captained by that "master genius," Miss Peple, we leave an enviable record of fun and achievement. After we have all enjoyed ourselves at a junior-senior dance, we return on a pilgrimage to Bryan Park which we first visited as freshmen. As a symbol of our wonderful time there we carve under the four-year-old "Freshmen," "Seniors—1932." We are congratulated at Christmas for entertaining our fellow-travelers by a play, "Christmas in Ix," written by a well-known Marshallite, Treville La Touche. Afterwards everyone rushes to the Wythe Gym for Mr. Harwood is giving a dance for the alumni and seniors. A month later we are sorely grieved to lose many of our number, although we rejoice at their graduation and the return of many for post-graduate work. Several dances are followed quickly by the spring play, "Rollo's Wild Oat," the senior picnic, and the Junior Stunt Night and dance. An attractive play is also presented on Senior Class Night. Exams are taken. The fourth milestone, graduation, is a reality!

The broad road that we have been traveling together abruptly ends. Narrow, winding paths lead into the distance, some to business, some to professions, some to colleges. So we will travel to our destiny with peace and love for our companions carrying with us always the influence of John Marshall with its vestments of reserve, culture, friendliness—strivings for better.

Mary Eleanor Whitehead,
Historian.

Junior Class History

"The third class is of them who know, and know not that they know. They are asleep: awake them!"

—Old Persian Proverb

THE OLD Persian proverb is the motif which is worked through the four classes of high school: first, the freshmen, who know not and know not that they know not; next, the sophomores, who know not and know that they know not; and then, the juniors, who know and know not that they know—until it finally dawns upon them that they are the seniors-to-be, with the liberties of "them who know and know that they know."

For the Class of '33, like every other junior class before them, did not realize that they were "coming of age" until the year was almost gone, in spite of their added privileges and responsibilities.

Beginning the year with the election of the following officers—president, Bill Sullivan; vice-president, Rose Hening; secretary, Anne Peple; treasurer, George Skipwith; historian, Rebecca Goldberg; and reporter, Margery Moore—the Junior Class pursued its diversified and pleasurable program of activities with Miss Helen C. Phillips as sponsor, mentor, and inspiration. Every member joined at least one of the several committees into which the class was divided—dramatic, program, poster, junior bulletin, publicity, and membership. In this way, each person, and not a chosen few, helped to make the Junior Class a success by doing his share of the work.

The first entertainment of the year was the Junior-Senior Dance on November 24. Judging by the large number that attended and the exclamations of dismay that were uttered when "Home, Sweet Home" was played, the affair was a huge success. First Santa Claus and then examinations claimed the attention of the members, so it was not until February that we could concentrate on class activities again. However, during those months of hard work, everyone had accumulated and stored up a craving for gaieties which culminated in the Senior-Junior-Sophomore Dance. This was the first time the three classes had joined together in any undertaking of this kind, therefore each vied with the others in number present and amount of fun. For that one night, there were no seniors, juniors, or sophomores, but all were Marshallites. Dancing seems to appeal to high school students more than any other form of amusement, so there was another Senior-Junior Dance in April. An onlooker would have seen no signs of spring fever, for the crowd was unusually peppy and exuberant. During the early spring months, the members participated in the ad-selling campaign of the "Monocle." Junior Stunt Night is an old class custom and is probably the most anticipated event on the junior calendar. It is the one time when the most talented put forth every effort and those without any particular accomplishment lend their support to make it the supreme affair of the year. The play, "Camp Keep-Off," was the main feature on the program. On the same night, we gave our farewell dance to the seniors of 1932.

It is hard to realize that from the rank and file of the Junior Class will come the "P. S.'s" (Prominent Seniors) of '33. Yet, each junior turns smilingly to his nearest classmate and repeats the class motto: "Keep on keeping on, Old Scout, and make John Marshall proud of the Maroon and Gold."

Historian.

Sophomore Class History

HAIL to the John Marshall Sophomores of 1932!

Three months made a wonderful change in this class. The session of 1931 closed with 275 freshmen. At the beginning of the new term the following additions were made to the group: from Northside Junior High School, 121; from Bainbridge Junior High School, 89; from Binford Junior High School, 97; from East End Junior High School, 78. Even more significant than this large increase in numbers was the fact that our class had ceased to be "Foolish Freshmen" and had blossomed forth into "Sophisticated Sophomores." As soon as we were settled in our school work, we turned our attentions to forming our organization and planning our activities for the year. The first class meeting was held on October 6, 1931. A committee was appointed to name candidates for class officers. Blue and gold were selected as class colors. A week later, the committee reported its selections and the candidates were introduced to the class. The campaign was on!

During the week of October 20, the votes were cast. This resulted in the election of the following officers: president, Eugene Smith; vice-president, Virginia Burton; secretary, Dorothy Saunders; treasurer, Stella Anderson; reporter, Mildred Lucy; and historian, Élise Robertson. Miss Elise Stephenson, a popular and attractive member of the faculty, continued as sponsor. With this organization, our class set out upon a journey which would lead its members through many happy associations into a full share of school life at John Marshall.

The first of a series of social activities planned for the fall was a dance in the Wythe Gymnasium by the seniors, juniors and sophomores. This took place on November 24. It gave a splendid opportunity for the members of the classes to become better acquainted.

The next important event was a picnic to Bryan Park which took place early in December. Even picnics need "ice-breakers." It wasn't long, however, before everyone was well acquainted and pepped up, so the general jollification that followed was a howling success. After the games, we were just one big ravenous crowd, and the marshmallows and hot dogs disappeared quickly. We very appropriately ended by old-fashioned campfire entertainment.

The month of January brought to all John Marshall students the season of that delightful indoor sport—examinations. The sophomores admitted both individually and collectively that the season brought surprising results.

With the beginning of a new term, the class was increased by the addition of 367 new members. Plans were made for an interesting series of events that were to run through the spring months. These included a program presented in the John Marshall Auditorium, in which a number of sophomores displayed their talents as entertainers; a stunt night for the enjoyment of our parents and friends; another picnic; and a dance given for the seniors.

In addition to the activities carried on by the class as an organization, the sophomores have participated in school life generally. Members of the class have gone in for various branches of athletics, and have made many contributions to the three school publications.

Élise Robertson,
Historian.

Freshman Class History

IN THE history of the Class of '35 are recorded many things which show that our highest ambition is some day to attain that honored title—seniors.

In September, 1931, with timid and bewildered minds, we entered John Marshall 367 in number as follows: 93 from Bainbridge Junior High School, 116 from Northside Junior High School, 72 from Binford Junior High School, and 86 from East End Junior High School.

At our first meeting held early in October, Miss Mary Maxwell Brockenbrough, a well-known art teacher, was elected sponsor.

At our next meeting the following officers were elected: Marcia-lena Parrish, president; Mary Ely, vice-president; Jean Satterfield, secretary; Hoyet Rist, treasurer; Orphie Beale, historian; and Virginia De Berry, reporter.

In November the class went to Bryan Park on a picnic. Strange as it seems, the Sophomore Class decided to go to the same place the same day. There appeared quite a hot dog mix-up. We finally straightened things out and roasted marshmallows and wieners. Exploring rocks was the next exciting adventure that befell us. That night we returned home tired, but happy, freshmen.

We had some bad news in January when our president, Marcia-lena Parrish, announced that she would soon leave Richmond. Our sponsor helped us in nominating the candidates for the new president. After the election, Thomas Duffy was declared president.

It seemed that we were doomed to suffer great losses, for in January we learned that Miss Mary Maxwell Brockenbrough, our sponsor, was to be claimed by matrimony. Fate was kind to us, however, and sent us Miss Eva Tatum, who is always eager to help us through our difficulties.

Then came examinations, and we felt the fury of the John Marshall teachers. Most of us weathered the storm and came out high and dry to start the new term.

Starting early in the new term, the call for freshmen was sent ringing through the school. We held a peppy meeting in February and had a large number present. We had many other meetings and the Freshman Class has shown its spirit by responding with enthusiasm.

Of course we are considered too young for dances. We must grow up to be sophomores before we can have our "coming-out party," but we think hikes and wiener roasts are loads of fun. The good times and lively meetings will always be pleasant memories to every freshman.

We may have been only "Freshies" but we were proud to be a part of John Marshall.

Orphie H. Beale,
Historian.

ABOUT fifty per cent of last year's squad lost by graduation, this session's team was faced with developing good replacement material before December, at which time the Corps Area Inter-Collegiate Match was begun. Fortunately, the records produced an excellent reserve from which to build a team, and the Corps is once more proud of those few men who worked so hard to give us a score representative of John Marshall effort and sportmanship in this activity. The team, by means of mail arrangements and faculty supervision, was able to compete favorably with other schools all over the nation.

FEW PEOPLE know that the Corps is practically a hundred per cent self-governed organization. Such a plan is possible and effective only because of the Honor System, with which every cadet is familiarized before wearing the uniform. The questions involving honor are referred to the Honor Court, a body representing each unit of the Corps.

Cadet Hop

WILL anyone ever forget it—this 1932 Cadet Hop of ours? It was wonderful from beginning to end.

The boys in immaculate spring full dress and the girls in fluffy white marched gaily beneath pastel lights through the lovely figure to the tune of "Sweethearts on Parade." The stately grand march, composed of couples meeting in twos, fours, and finally eights, opened the ball. The figure J. M., which was made by a single alternate line, was loudly cheered. Following this was the wheel, the rim being formed by the girls in snowy, white dresses, and the spokes by the cadets. But the arch of sabers was the most beautiful of all! 'Midst shouts of applause, the girls, as they passed through this lovely arch, were thrilled just a little more—if such a thing were possible—by receiving a tiny package which turned out to be a handsome ring—the John Marshall seal on a blue and white background.

As the figure ended, dancing began in earnest. Everyone from the tiny Freshmen to the alumni of ten years ago swayed to the waltz tunes and snappy fox-trots. It was all too soon that the hands of the clock pointed to twelve, and we had to bid farewell to one of the happiest and gayest nights of our lives.

Forum Club

WHEN the Greeks didn't have a word for it, the Romans always did. So it was with the Romans that the term "forum" first was used. It meant an open discussion or place of oratory.

Now it has reappeared in John Marshall High School where the pupils of the Public Speaking 2 classes are using that same term as the name of one of their clubs. Those who take Public Speaking 2 from September to February of any year automatically become members of the organization.

Its entire purpose is to sponsor in the pupils an interest in debate, public address, and current public questions. It also has its advantages in making the student at home before an audience and at ease when doing any speaking.

Due to the popularity of this subject it has become necessary to have five or six branches of the society instead of the preferable one. Mrs. DeCourcy, Miss Peple, and Miss Holloway are directors in the club activities. Each group has its own constitution, organization, and set of officers. Weekly programs are a part of the curriculum of these branches.

So, for the past few years, this club has taken its place on the pages of the school annual and, due to the favorable comment it has drawn, hopes to continue there for some time to come.

The Harwood Literary Society

THE HARWOOD LITERARY SOCIETY is organized in all the Public Speaking 2 classes from February to June. Each section is supervised by the teacher of that particular group. The teachers sponsoring this society are Mrs. Charlotte Wheeler DeCourcy, Miss Emily Holloway, and Miss Mary Peple.

The purpose of this society is to learn parliamentary law, to gain practice in organizing programs of great variety for information and entertainment, to train one in the art of making speeches for all occasions, and to gain experience in dramatics and recitations.

Each section has its own set of officers which are changed at intervals stipulated by the organization in order to give a great number of people executive training.

The weekly meeting of the society is conducted entirely by students. Each meeting is under the supervision of a different chairman, thus giving variety in the programs. The sponsor of the society is always the guest of honor.

Every member looks forward with keen anticipation to the weekly meeting, for they look upon it as an entertainment rather than just another class.

THE VAN VORTS have covered another eventful year of debating, and all that it implies.

Interest in the club has been keen ever since its organization under Miss Ray Van Vort, but this year the club feels especially proud because it has not only had an extremely large roll, but an exceptionally active one. The old members have held up guiding hands and endeavored to help the new members. All these were urged to debate so that they could have experience prior to the preparation of the State Debate, and that they might also earn their pins.

Last year the club endeavored to live without a sponsor. This year the officers believed the sponsor a necessity and so they chose Miss Richeson, an English teacher here, to help them.

Speeches on the art of debating and rules of parliamentary law began the year's work. Then debating itself began in earnest. Both serious subjects, such as the thirteen-month calendar, and light ones, as the advantages and disadvantages of high school football, were presented for argument.

No later than the middle of December, work began on the State Debate. Round table discussion on the subject, club debates, and one with the Marshallite team preceded the final presentation, which we felt certain would meet with approval in Charlottesville, despite the fact that the following was the specified subject for the debate: "Resolved: That the future prosperity of the South lies upon legally-regulated industries."

Senior French Society

WE STUDY FRENCH! We speak French! We like French or we would not take it. In looking back over our French course we find many interesting things that seemed hard have become easy. We remember working over irregular verbs and tying our tongues in knots trying to pronounce some difficult words or attempting to straighten out some phonetics that refused to yield.

But out of our struggles have come success and understanding. John Marshall can well be proud of her Senior French Society, because of the activities of this year. Each class which comprises the Senior French Society has held individual monthly meetings in which the unusual and interesting phases of French life were discussed. Several times groups of classes have joined each other for special programs.

On December 22 all the first period French classes met in the auditorium and put on a Christmas program. The classes sang Noel songs, and scenes from plays studied in the various classes were dramatized. The most interesting feature of this program was the debate, "Resolved: That French teachers should assign homework for the holidays." The judges decided in favor of the affirmative, although the opinion of the audience was probably for the negative.

So you can see that our struggles have really been worth while, and that it has been a real pleasure to know this beautiful language. We are sure that if you would try studying French, you would think it fun, too.

Junior French Society

PARLEZ-VOUS FRANCAIS? Mais oui! Nous le parlons avec plaisir. But now let's speak English for the benefit of those who do not "parlez-vous" but might learn how if they realized how much fun it is.

As we are only beginners, we spend much of our time on the mechanics of the language we are studying. We pass hours on our verbs, and we sometimes fear that we will get old and gray-haired before we learn all the rules, but suddenly comes the bright dawn and the vision of something we did not realize before. We really do understand one more rule and have gone one more step toward the complete mastery of the language we wish to learn.

But even though we "bone" so much, there's a silver lining to every cloud, and we see our silver lining when we have a club meeting. At these meetings we really have fun, for we realize that we do know some French and although our teacher moans and groans when we just don't seem to get our irregular verbs, we give her a lucky break by carrying out these programs. At the monthly meetings we have plays, sing songs and tell jokes—all in French, of course. Don't you think this sounds like a Senior French Society meeting?

Watch out, Seniors! The Juniors are growing up!

Senior Spanish Society

IT'S A GREAT LIFE if you're taking Spanish!

But why take Spanish anyway? First, take it for the beauty of the language itself. Second, take it because our country is becoming more and more acquainted with South America, and young men and young women who speak Spanish well and understand it easily are needed to carry on the American relations with out Spanish friends. Third, it is a pleasure to be able to know other languages besides English, and to be able to read books written in Spanish. These are all practical, sound reasons for studying the language.

But let us not forget the romantic, interesting side of taking Spanish. What better way is there to learn the customs and manners of Old Spain than to read about them in the language of the people themselves? In our study of Spanish we come across descriptions of the marvelous landscapes, the people in the vineyards, the way in which the peasants dress and their ways of living. What a joy to be able to read in Spanish the descriptions of the glorious bull fights, the dashing toreadors and the gay, laughing señoritas!

The Senior Spanish Society hopes that everyone who takes Spanish will enjoy knowing about the joyous, dancing señoritas and the gallant senores of gay Madrid along with his verb blanks and rules for the subjunctive.

Junior Spanish Society

"AH, BAY, THAY, DAY"—Don't be alarmed; it's just one of the Junior Spanish classes learning the alphabet—and do they have fun? You see, we of the Junior Spanish Society (sh-h! don't tell the French students!) are working for the scholarship that is given every year to the best student of modern languages. Of course, we all want to get it, so we're all working hard.

And we're really accomplishing things, too. Why, every one of us can tell you the story of the "Little Red Hen" in Spanish, and if you need any arithmetic done, just give it to us and we'll be glad to return you the problem solved in Spanish. Then, too, we have learned so many things about Spain and the Spanish people that we never knew before and that we could never have learned if we hadn't taken this language.

We had lots of fun just before Christmas. You see, our teachers thought we should learn some Spanish songs and we did them, too. On song days we had no homework and so we went to the auditorium several times to sing. We enjoyed those days and during the holiday we had so much fun singing our Spanish songs to our little brothers and sisters who just couldn't imagine what we were singing about.

So you see that studying a language is not all verbs and rules, and we know if you tried some Spanish you'd enjoy it just as much as we do.

The Writers' Club

THE WRITERS' CLUB was organized to encourage students to write for publications. This year the club was under the guidance of Mr. Walter Beverley, with Jonathan Kellogg as president, Margaret Van Oot as vice-president, Dick Ferguson as treasurer, Rebecca Goldberg as secretary, and Mary Frances McClanahan as assistant secretary.

Business meetings were held at school in the afternoons and other meetings in the homes of members to criticize the literary efforts of the members and discuss ways of improving the writing.

The Writers' Club, John Marshall's oldest literary organization, has always furnished most of the publication editors, contributions, and staff members for the "Record," "Monocle," and Marshallite, as well as literary contributors to the "Scholastic" and other outside publications.

Quill and Scroll

QUILL AND SCROLL, International Honorary Society for High School Journalists, is an organization which lists among its founders and officers editors of internationally known periodicals, and leaders of world-famed press associations. The members work to bring honor to a school already rich in tradition and glory.

Quill and Scroll activities opened for the first term under the following officers at John Marshall: president, Rebecca Goldberg; vice-president, A. C. Epps; secretary-treasurer, Henrietta Salsbury; reporter, Margaret Dixon; adviser, Miss Charles Anthony.

Among the important projects was the completion of a hand-book of John Marshall which will give adequate information concerning its activities to all newcomers and visitors. The above picture was taken during a visit to Edgar Allan Poe's Shrine. John Marshall members submitting entries in the national contest received mention in every group.

Officers for the second term were: president, Margaret Van Oot; vice-president, Harold Tucker; secretary-treasurer, Mary Frances McClanahan; reporter, Linwood Haden; adviser, Miss Charles Anthony.

As the year closes, members of the John Marshall chapter feel that they have earned the right to feel a thrill of pride at mention of Quill and Scroll—the Phi Beta Kappa of high school literati.

Science Club

THE SCIENCE CLUB looks back with pleasure over this, the second year of its existence as a club at John Marshall.

The members, organizing early, chose Miss Loulie Kelley as sponsor and elected the following officers: Eleanor Whitehead, president; James Parkinson, vice-president; Dorothy Garrett, secretary; Stuart Harrison, treasurer; and Bernard Whaley, reporter.

Taking advantage of the beautiful fall weather, the future scientists revelled at an afternoon's outing at Bryan Park. Impressive exercises were held at the death of the great scientist, Mr. Thomas A. Edison. In quick succession followed trips to Sauer's extract plant, "The Richmond News Leader" plant, and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. On February 25 the Science Club sponsored the planting of a tree to the honor of George Washington as a part of the school's celebration of the bicentennial of his birth.

The members look forward to another year with light hearts, hoping to accomplish even greater things in the future and promising their hearty support to all worthy projects undertaken for John Marshall.

EARLY in the morning of September 12, the third squadron of the Ace Club of John Marshall High School took off on its flight through the term under the direction of Commander Lucille Walsh. There were many happy and exciting landings made for parties, dances, and social gatherings. Much of the success of the club was due to the wonderful coöperation and advice from the Headquarters' Adviser, Miss Fleet. The planes were kept in perfect condition by the chief mechanic, Junie East, and all the pilots made perfect landings all through the term.

Sailing, sailing
  From September on to June,
The Ace Club of old John Marshall High
  With engines all in tune.
Ace Club! Ace Club!
Cheerful and glad and gay,
A wonderful time was had by all
  While sailing on our way.

THE ALPHA PHI CLUB of John Marshall started the year right by having a meeting at Henry Miller's, who is our president for the year. Assisting him are Claude Duling, vice-president, and Claude Stanley and Jack Fryer, treasurer and secretary. At this meeting we decided on our new bids and were lucky in getting Travis Smithdeal, Edgar Davidson and Russell Sowell. They truly made good members.

This year we are again in the club's bowling league. Although we came in fourth last year, we are going strong and expect to do better this time.

Out of our fifteen members, nine are cadets, five line sergeants, one first sergeant, and three lieutenants.

We gave two dances the last semester, one at Hallowe'en and one at Christmas. And were they good! Just ask anybody who was there.

The club is lucky to have back with it as its mascot "Dickie" Laughon. She is a prominent member of the Duckie Club and is well known in and out of school. Mr. Garrett consented to be our sponsor or faculty adviser this year. You could not find a better one.

House parties are in the air and you can always look forward to some good Alpha Phi dances.

THE BACHELOR CLUB was organized in 1928 with the idea of furthering social activities in school. The club has done its best to carry out this aim. To bear this out, all of its members have joined their respective classes; many take part in other school activities, such as athletics and publications.

During the past year the club has been engaged in various activities of its own. Last summer it practically migrated to Trice's Lake. Some of the features of this trip, long to be remembered, are: Bob Montieth was nicknamed "Mooney;" Billy Banta could not sleep with the moon in his face; Hudson Hoen changed his name to "Tweedie;" Billy Yonker stayed out calling bullfrogs until 2:00 a.m.

The private dances of the club were punctuated in various ways such as: "Dinky" Ewell brings the country moon to town; Bill McMullin thinks Charlottesville has some very good dancers. At the Bachelor Baby Blowout, things turned out to be rather childish: Doug Crenshaw was dressed up in his grandma's "nitie;" Frances Bates and "Buck" Rady washed the soup utensils, and, by the way, you ought to hear Boyd Collier and Skippy Skipwith whistle when they drink soup.

Other members are men about town: Duncan Hawley serves ice cream at the meetings; Billy Thalhimer has three books; John Walden lets us play football in his back yard; Dick Ferguson is the country's best sports writer; the name Eddie Turner speaks for itself.

The club certainly has been sailing smoothly under Miss Benton's guidance. We are one bunch who truly appreciate her.

SPEAKING of presidents—isn't Nell Kay a marvelous one? It is no easy job to be president of this year's bunch of Bootsies, but Nell has been grand, even if she does sometimes break into sarcasm and that ever ready "Are you telling me?"

For vice-president we have Myrtis Elliot, our dancing "big sister," always there with a smile.

Our secretary, Flo Troutner, comes in a class all by herself—you know!

We picked our smallest member, Bobbie Harris, for treasurer. "Cutesy woo."

Just ask us about Kitty Kellam, our reporter. She's a honey and—how she can talk!

What would we ever do without Miss Henson? She's one "peach of a sponsor." 'Nuff said!

Charlie Hecker is our bigger and better mascot, "or sumpin."

Well, Nancy is Nancy, with her brown eyes and million dollar smile. "Oh, go on."

The popular song, "Sweet and Lovely," might well have been written for the irresistible Dot Fonville.

For "Miss Sophistication" we could nominate Buddie Grattan, but watch out, she'll fool you!

Have you seen our "Smiling Bootsie?" That's Betty Harvey, the one with the Southern drawl.

Have you seen the little girl with the smile that says "Won't you come over in my backyard and play?"—That's Virginia Leonard.

"Sweet sixteen and never been kissed—come on big boy, show me what I've missed." That's McAnally, rolling "them brown eyes."

"Nigger"—Virginia Riley to you—has quite a way with the men!

THE CHIC CLUB was founded by Miss Grace Slater in 1914. During our seven years in John Marshall we have taken part in the activities at school and have attempted to be of any service that we could. In this past year we have organized a chapter club in Thomas Jefferson and we plan to disband the original Chic Club from John Marshall with the close of school in June, 1932. The purpose of the Chics has been mainly to bring a certain group of girls closer together and to let them work with one another. We feel that our aim has been fulfilled. Although we are leaving, we want to take time to wish the other clubs a great deal of success in everything they undertake.

The club has been kept up only by the unfailing diligence of our president, Bobs Armitage, whose leadership has been an inspiration to us in everything we have attempted this year. Her charm, personality, and interest in us have made her an ideal president.

Our vice-president, Gillet, is that very good-looking young lady who graces the halls of V. M. I. and also enters in the social activities of John Marshall as is shown by her sponsorship of "D" Company in the past year.

"Cokey" Caffery, our secretary, is known to all of you at John Marshall. She is "that beautiful creature" who roams around here with an air of sophistication. Anyone who talks with "Cokey" soon notices her ready wit and attractive personality.

Sarah Harding is our cool detached Chic, and incidentally our treasurer—so if she suddenly decides to take a trip around the world—think nothing of it. It is a rare occasion when Sarah voices an opinion on any subject. We all understand though that she is interested in Randolph-Macon.

Amelia and Elizabeth Garber, our two new Chics, are darling girls. They have a quiet but sweet personality which is very attractive. Already they are taking a part and showing their willingness to cooperate with us.

Miss Helen Harwood, our sponsor, is well known to all of you and, we, ourselves, have found her ideal. Was there ever such a good sport as "our Helen"? Always right in everything we plan to do—and so much fun that it is often hard for us to realize that she is our faculty adviser. Even though we will not be here next year, deep down in our hearts we will always consider her "our sponsor"!

A FRIENDSHIP almost as famous as that of David and Jonathan, and certainly as sincere and genuine, is the basis for the name of our club: Phintias, of Syracuse, was condemned to death by Dionysius the Elder. He begged to be set at liberty for a short time that he might arrange his affairs, and Damon pledged his life in return for that of his friend. True to his word, Phintias returned before the time of execution. The tyrant, Dionysius, to express his admiration of their fidelity, released both of them and begged to be admitted to their friendship.

For the names of these two friends, Damon and Phintias, comes the title, Delta Kappa Pi, and as the name stands for a great friendship, so the club tries and aims to promote more and truer friendships among the students of John Marshall High School.

The emblem of the Delta Kappa Pi Club is hexagon shaped, with gold letters on a background of green. These emblems are worn on white sweaters, or are engraved on pins or belts.

The Delta Kappa Pi Club was organized in 1930 by ten boys. During the two short years of its life, it has taken an active and increasingly important part in the student activities of John Marshall, and it hopes to continue in its work for years to come.

THIS is the first time we have entered these pages, and we have had quite a struggle with ourselves as to what we should say in such a write-up. As in all new clubs, affairs have been in a rather topsy-turvy state. However, we soon settled down and were off again like a group of race horses, but on a different course, plunging forward toward higher standards under the leadership of Howard Mayo, our big time president and a pal if there ever was one. Wayne Shannon, our vice-president and answer to a maiden's prayer, assisted Mayo with his numerous duties in a noble fashion.

Our sponsor was selected from the Wythe building, and is that ever-popular Mr. Bailey Tucker. Rose Hening, our mascot, had no trouble in becoming a true Don Cossack, and that's a compliment in anybody's language.

The office of secretary was filled by Fred Timberlake, while Leonard Shelton held down that of treasurer in a big way. Alfred Alley, the reporter, was the one responsible for those remarks in "The Monocle."

The club was at every football game played here in Richmond by the Justices during the season. It also took an active part in the Cadet Basketball League as several of its members were on the "C" Company team. We expect to take a very active part in next year's bowling league.

Among the social activities enjoyed by the club were the Cadet Hop and our own private yachting party down the James River on board our president's yacht, the "Charmaine." This was held during the Christmas holidays.

This account must end, so in concluding may we, the Don Cossacks of '32, wish the Don Cossacks of '33 a most successful career.

MISS ISABELLE DICKERSON—We just call her Miss "Izzy." A sponsor to whom we owe our success in everything. Words can't express our gratitude to her.

Stu Woodson—Just the essence of school spirit as well as Duckie spirit. Our mascot, "A" Company "lieuy," Idma man, and J. M. cheer leader.

Rose Hening—She has everything! Besides being just the sweetest girl in all the world and the best of pals to all the Duckies, she is our president.

Ann Mahoney—The bluest of blue eyes, the curliest of brown hair, and the cutest of freckles. That's Ann Mahoney. Nor do we have to be told she's Irish. Just meet Ann and see!

Helen Moler—Whenever a certain little person comes tripping down the hall and talking "baby talk," you may be sure it's "Moler!" That's our Duckie who has lots of little curls framing a saucy face.

Marylou Sparks—"All the world is a stage" and Marylou is just the Duckiest actress! Though very versatile, Marylou is always sweet and shy.

Marie Duling—She's the good-looking blonde Duckie always seen with a happy smile spread all over her face. Along with her beauty you'll find Marie the swellest of sports and oh—more fun!

Jo August—Our post-grad Duckie is as true a Marshallite as any person could be. One need only say, "Jo," and everyone shouts, "Oh, I know her! She's a peach!"

Frances Bates—An auburn-haired little girl who is sponsor of "E" Company, mascot of the Bachelor Club and one of the truest of friends.

Liz English—Good ole reliable "Liz." Her southern hospitality just charms us and all who know her.

Kitty Fowlkes—"Sugar"—that's what we call her because she's so refined.

Dickie Laughon—The one some people call dumb but they just can't recognize originality. Behind all this playfulness is Dickie's real heart of gold. She's a pal anyone would be proud to have.

Ann Morris—The petite, winsome little brunette to whom "Life is Just a Bowl of Cherries." Is she all for a certain company? Well, isn't he all for her?

Carolyn Robinson—"Sweet Sue, just you." That's Sue—always herself. She just seems to "win them one by one."

Dot Sharpe—Although Dot is rather slow at seeing through things, everyone forgives her because she is so sweet along with it. She has really had Duckie spirit from the very beginning.

Peggy Wagener—Sleepy blue eyes, blond hair, and an incomparable weakness for the football team. She's sure to make you laugh and feel life's worth while.

Quackingly,

Duckie Club.

OH, HELLO, SENIOR! Gee, but it is great to see you again! Sit down and let me tell you about this club. Do you see that first picture on the next page? Well, that is Mr. Giménez, who is the best sponsor any club has ever had.

The picture of the young lady is that of Miss Peggy Wagener, who happens to be the best mascot. Judging by the looks she receives at the meetings, she is the secret passion of most of the members.

On the next row you will find Eddie Gill, Albert Toon, Jarvis Tolson, and Mac Burhman. These boys upheld the football team this year. Eddie was captain this year and he is captain-elect for next year. Toon was the plugging half-back that created such a sensation among the girls. Tolson and Burhman did some very good work in the line.

In the following row you see Peter Franklin, who left us in February to sojourn at Richmond College, and Johnny Apperson, who is a jolly good fellow. The two cadets on the end of this row are Stuart Walker, the handsome lieutenant of the little company, and Hinky Page, the member of a big company.

The next are "Nuttie" Gregory and Francis Dillon. "Nuttie" was the reporter this year and the gave the club a lot of good publicity. Dillon was the bowling ace in the club whenever a lady was present.

Well, that's about all I can tell you, except that the club has had a most successful year. The alumni dances, the club parties and meetings were most enjoyable. Now it is getting late, and I must see some of the boys before they leave for college, so I'll be looking forward to seeing you again. So long!

Say, do you know who that boy was you were just talking to? Yes, that was Junie East, this year's president. He set an example of dependability and kept the boys "sticking together."

SUCCESS has marked the year of 1931-32 for the Monx Club. With the happy thoughts and remembrances of the house party at Buckroe Beach last June, we faced the year with the true, ever-present Monx spirit. Billy McGrath, as president, started things off in a big, peppy way. Henry Riley was his able assistant. A. C. Epps and Edgar (Shiekie) Andrews filled the offices of secretary and treasurer. Reporting the news was the task of Fred Bates.

At an early date in September, bids were extended to fill the places of those who had graduated. Tommy Jeffries, Fitzhugh Woodson, and Walter Todd, the boys who have shown fine spirit and cooperation towards making the club a big success, were chosen to fill the vacancies. At this time Captain James C. Anthony, our loyal faculty adviser, kindly consented to be sponsor, making this his fourth year in this position.

November brought much enjoyment to the Monx. Todd allowed us to use his place at Lanexa, which we say is ideal. Boating, swimming, plenty of woods and hills (just real country), good eats, and cabin de luxe attest the good time we had there. Following this, we had a Thanksgiving dance at the Westwood Country Club. It was a great success and everyone had a big time. We were pleased that so many of the alumni were home and could attend it.

The Monx had a bowling team in the league in which Jeffries, Todd, and McKittrick were in the running for highest pins. At first, few were bowling, but this was due to so many of the members being out for football. Hunting and golf also interested the club. A 'possum hunt was held in January and we had lots of luck. Several made the track and golf teams this year, so it is believed that our club was well represented in sports.

Spring meant a house party, but the event of the year was the boat trip down the James. We had eagerly looked forward to this and now this happy and pleasant occasion, marred only by thought of sad good-byes, has passed. Thus we end this successful year in the high school which is so near and dear to us—JOHN MARSHALL.

UNDER the splendid guidance of our sponsor and mascot, together with the coöperation of each member, the Nu Iota Chis have completed another successful and enjoyable year.

Mrs. Bugg, our sponsor, is a dear, always ready to advise us and add pep to our parties and dances. We call her a "real sport."

Henry has also been ready with loads of advice and suggestions. Besides being our mascot, Henry is president of the Alpha Phi, senior deacon of the DeMolays, and an active member of the Hot Shots.

Helen Soles, our president, seems to have a right good job dividing her time between two clubs and a certain "HE." But we must admit she's made a success of it.

Our vice-president, Mildred Mitchell, is certainly a good club member. She was only the "bad girl" at one meeting and—oh, what a meeting!

Mary, our secretary, minutes us when the meetings are quiet enough for her to hear what's going on.

Surely you've seen all of us playing hide-and-seek with Mary Virginia. Why? Because she's our treasurer. Funny, though, she always collects.

Then there's Jeanette who is always finding something to report. She'll be trying to give demerits soon. We also notice that Jeanette is quite interested in the band.

We've all agreed that it is rather a good thing that we have our meetings in the afternoons instead of at night, because Madeline would be saying something about the "moon."

Elizabeth Leonard, a dear, is always ready to make some wise remark about everything that happens.

Louise, better known to us as "Lou," is truly an addition to the club. "Lou" is always "on deck" with wise cracks, new love songs, and another pin added to her collection.

Margaret is our peppy member who is always late at the meetings but gets there just the same.

Dorothy, our "Dot," will always be remembered for her swell disposition and sweet smile.

Frances—just mention the word, dance, and "Frankie" always offers her house.

Marion is the auburn-haired "Miss Mollie" of our club. If you need advice, consult her.

THIS YEAR has been an outstanding one for the Pep Club.

Garnett Smith, our president, has devoted much of her time to the organization—except, of course, the time she gives to—oh, what's his name, Garnett?

Poor "Maxie!" She does have a time. But in spite of everything, she was voted the "most intellectual."

Aileen Crenshaw, our capable reporter, has told you through "The Monocle" the various activities of the club during the past year.

One particularly deserving congratulations is our treasurer. If you don't believe collecting dues from the Pep Club is hard, just try it. How about it, Gladys?

We have been fortunate in having Miss "Connie" King for our sponsor. We couldn't have picked a better one. We hope that she will continue to sponsor the Pep Club.

The Peps will never forget Billy McGrath. Not only has he kept us in a good humor with his joking but he has also done more than his share of club work.

I'm afraid "Virgania" Bock will bawl me out if I don't put her next. There's really one mysterious thing about Jane—she's the only Pep who can keep a secret.

We'll always remember Nancy Workman, her Christmas dance, etc.

With Jerry Brown we associate Randolph-Macon, Cavalier mascot, or maybe "biggest bluffer."

Kitty Sanford made a plenty good Pep. We all like her a lot.

Everybody knows and likes Mary Wright, our good-looking blonde.

Last, but not least, comes our great talker, Kitty Maynard. We wonder who the person is with whom she is seen walking around school all the time?

THE JOHN MARSHALL HI-Y CLUB is composed of high school boys who are interested in developing high ideals for themselves and for the social group of which they are a part. Their motto is: "To create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian conduct throughout their school and community."

Members of the club extend their thanks and appreciation to Willard Kaempf, ex-president, who has made possible the high level on which the club works today. Raymond Copple, elected president in February, has done fine work, securing full coöperation. Mr. Walter F. Beverly and Mr. D. V. Blayney are the Hi-Y advisers, and the club has prospered considerably under their guidance.

The club meets every Tuesday evening, supper is served, and a program is given. The program committee has featured vocational guidance and discussions with the Girl Reserves, one being "What is an ideal boy or girl?" The dramatic committee under Otis Hall presented a father and son fellowship play, "Perfect Partnership," at the annual fathers' meeting. Raising the yearly budget at a booth at the State Fair, they have given fifty dollars to support foreign work and sixty-five dollars to club room equipment. The Hi-Y bowling team ranked second in the school league.

Football, 1931

Central, 18; John Marshall, 7.—The first game with Central High, of Washington, found Captain Eddie Gill, Steward Conrad, and John Jeter unable to play on account of injuries sustained during practice. Justice quarter-back, Marvin Pullen, scored the initial touchdown and immediately followed with the extra point. Andrews, Burhman and Brinser, playing remarkably well, helped the team to check Central. But Central was not to be denied, and defeated John Marshall 18—7.

Lynchburg, 38; John Marshall, 0—In the second game with Lynchburg High as adversary, Captain Gill was back in uniform for the opening quarter, but was taken out on account of a ruptured artery in his leg. After this the team relaxed. When the third string men entered for both teams, the game was slowed up. But even with this the game ended 38—0 in favor of Lynchburg.

James Farley Mike West Jarvis Tolson Murrill Howe

Danville, 7; John Marshall, 0—Danville High was out for revenge of last year's squad. Mac Burhman fumbled the first kick which went only ten yards. This was followed by another fumble placing Danville on the Justice two-yard line. Pullen kicked out of danger and the teams played in midfield for the rest of the half. Cunningham broke through the Justice line for the only score of the day. Herman Taylor saved John Marshall a more smarting defeat when he broke up a long pass, which might have resulted in another touchdown for Danville.

St. Christopher, 0; John Marshall, 0—Tradition is a great thing in sports, and since John Marshall had never lost a game to St. Christopher, the team felt it was not likely to start this year. With the first kick came reassurance. Each team counteracted the other's brief supremacy and as a consequence the ball never passed the twenty-yard line of either team. Toon's line smashing, forward passing combination placed the Justice squad on the twenty-two-yard line, where he tried a pass over the goal line, which was intercepted, the game ending a scoreless tie.

Salem, 6; John Marshall, 13.—Seven minutes after the whistle blew opening the game with Salem,

Al Toon raced thirty-five yards to score the first touchdown for John Marshall. The second score came in the third period when Shorts, Salem's back, passed forty yards to Price who raced fifty more yards for the first Salem touchdown. The last period Bill Kirkpatrick tore off tackle for the deciding score. Al Toon hit center for the extra point. John Marshall scored eighteen downs to Salem's two.

Benedictine, 6; John Marshall, 0.—John Marshall entered the game with Benedictine confident of victory. In the beginning of the second half John Marshall made a bad pass, fumbled from center, and a bad kick following, giving the cadets only thirty yards to go for a touchdown. A completed pass placed them on the Justice ten-yard line. Wallmeyer, powerful Benedictine back, crashed into the John Marshall line, going over on the third down. The game ended 6—0 for Benedictine.

Maury, 21; John Marshall, 0.—John Marshall's annual game with Maury was unusually lopsided before the game was well started. Nieder, Maury back, opened the scoring as a result of a twenty-five-run. John Jeter was up to his usual form and was the best player on both squads. Pullen saved John Marshall more than once with his outstanding kicking. The game ended 21—0.

Walter Todd Cliff Edmunds Bill Todd Thomas McKittrick

Petersburg, 27; John Marshall, 0.—The worst defeat on the home field was witnessed by the Crimson Wave from Petersburg to the tune of 27—0 in favor of Petersburg. For the last eight years Petersburg has been defeated by the Justices. Revenge is sweet, Petersburg High says.

Newport News, 7; John Marshall, 7.—In the next game John Marshall held Newport News to a 7—7 tie. After a week of coaching on passing, the Justices were greatly improved. Newport News was held on the three-yard line twice for downs before it was able to score. The Blue and White came back in the fourth and on the last play, a twenty-five-yard pass from Pullen to Toon accounted for the tally. Pullen with iron nerves and steady toe drop-kicked the point to tie the score.

Thomas Jefferson, 6; John Marshall, 7.—An inspired team raced upon the field at Mayo Island to play Thomas Jefferson for the first time on the gridiron. Marvin Pullen took the fight out of the Jeffs when he smashed off-tackle for sixty-five yards. His educated toe again helped the Blue and White when he drop-kicked the extra point. Black, former Justice back, led the Jeffersonians down the field to tally. His pass for extra point was finally grounded. This ended the game 7—6 in favor of John Marshall. We are looking forward to many happy years of rivalry with Thomas Jefferson.

Eddie Gill, Captain

Although the Justice squad witnessed its leanest year, it produced some excellent football stars. The greatest honor was bestowed on Captain Eddie Gill who was ranked as the only Justice player to make all-State prep team. A brilliant quarter-back was produced in Marvin Pullen who made all-city prep team. Pullen was outstanding as a field general, a punter, a passer, and a ball carrier. Much of Pullen's success depended upon the expert interference of John Jeter, the all-city guard. Murrill Howe, honorable mention for all-city end, messed up as many plays and made as many tackles as Gill.

Basketball, 1932

Herman Taylor, Captain

PERFECT coördination of mind and body was the chief factor in the success of the 1932 basketball squad. Their superiority was proven by their thrilling victory over George Washington High School of Danville for the State Championship, 25 to 24, their defeat of Benedictine for the city championship to the tune of 29 to 27, and their right of entry in the Middle Atlantic Championship Tournament at Lexington, in the semi-finals of which they were defeated by Eastern High School, who finally won the crown.

The team was handicapped at the start by the loss of Bob Ridout and Childrey Austin, letter men of last year, due to the fact that they failed to pass the required number of subjects. With less than half the games played Marvin Pullen was taken by graduation, but to compensate for this, Bob Ridout became eligible when he passed his classes in the fall term. Graduation took Dave Krapin, but reserve strength overcame this setback.

Under the capable leadership of Captain Herman "Ikey," Taylor and the hard work of Manager Bernard Avery, a fine schedule was arranged and capably carried out. Of the twenty-one games played, John Marshall won eighteen and lost three.

Captain Taylor, forward, was second high scorer in local prep schools. He was selected for the all-city team. His running-mate was Reuben Gordon, a diminutive, sure shot. Robert Ridout, center, captain-elect for next year, was among the high scorers in every game. Alec Grossman was always ready to help the team out of any tight places. Marvin Pullen aided decidedly in getting the ball down the field. Eddie Gill, a true sportsman, was a strong defensive man. Ferdinand Ebel was a trusty player when our team met an opponent with much height. Jake Fratkin had speed and endurance making him invaluable. Tommy Wiley, excellent shot, will be the main stay for next year's squad.

The boys worked hard and steadily to develop a winning team, and, with the splendid training and help of Coach "Hobbie" Snead, they won great honors for themselves and for John Marshall.

The aforesaid combination found no opposition in St. Christopher, Fork Union, Randolph-Macon B Team, Salem High, and Jefferson High of Roanoke. But this team met its superior when it encountered the University of Richmond Frosh.

It was a determined team that upset Benedictine by a score of 29-27. This put new spirit into the team and in quick succession, it downed Thomas Jefferson, Newport News, Petersburg, Suffolk, Maury, St. Christopher, and Newport News on a return engagement. Taking on the Newport News Apprentice School, the boys suffered their second defeat by a four point margin. Meeting Salem, Benedictine, Petersburg, Thomas Jefferson, and Maury without any more opposition, John Marshall annexed the Eastern Virginia crown.

Baseball, 1931

THE JOHN MARSHALL baseball team had much to live up to in the season of 1931, for, during the preceding season the team had a perfect record, going through a nineteen-game schedule without a single defeat. There were only three letter men back on which to base his team, so Coach Miller scouted around school and gathered up what material there was to be found. By dint of practice and hard work, his team developed into a very creditable nine. During the season they played ten games, of which they won five and lost five.

Charles Shade, Captain

In the first game of the season, with Staunton Military Academy, Stansbury starred, getting four hits, and as many runs, two of which were homers.

Taylor's batting was the only outstanding feature in the first Justice-Jacket Frosh game. He got a triple, a double, and two singles.

John Marshall was leading by eight runs in the third inning of the game with Petersburg High. In the fourth inning, Petersburg scored seven runs, batting four pitchers out of the box. The game ended, 19 to 10, in favor of Petersburg.

The toughest game of the season was the one with the William and Mary Freshmen. This was a pitcher's duel from the start to finish. The score was tied, 1 to 1, up to the eighth inning when John Marshall broke through and

Erwood Thurston

Foster Brinser

Billy Pitts

made a run. Then in their half of the ninth, the William and Mary boys made a masterful attempt in which they succeeded in routing John Marshall and getting five runs, winning 6 to 2.

After losing the next game to Maury, 5 to 2, John Marshall snapped its losing streak by defeating the University of Richmond Freshmen, 8 to 3. Herman Taylor, John Marshall pitcher, won his own game, batting a home run in the fourth inning and scoring two men ahead of him.

Wunsch and Stansbury were the John Marshall batteries in the game with Thomas Jefferson. Wunsch pitched a beautiful game, striking out eleven men in six innings; Shade did the batting honors in this game making three of the twelve runs. However, practically every man on the team scored a run.

The Justices then journeyed to Randolph-Macon to defeat the Jacket Freshmen 19 to 2. This game was a practice one for the Justices and every man scored a hit or two.

Errors cost John Marshall the second game played with the University of Richmond Frosh. The score was tied up to the eighth inning when Richmond took the lead, scoring four runs, and won by a count of 5 to 1.

In the last game of the season, the Justices were defeated for a second time by Petersburg. Until the seventh inning the game was a brilliant pitcher's duel, but a shower of nine errors lost the game for John Marshall.

The outstanding players during the season were Smith, Shade, Taylor, Brinser, and Wunsch. These proved invaluable to their team in their respective positions. On the whole, the team had a fairly successful season.

JOHN MARSHALL has been represented in National events! Platt Bullard, star of the 1930, '31 and '32 track squads, went undefeated in city, state and interstate meets for two years. At the National Track Meet in Chicago he won second place in the 880-yard run. John Marshall may be justly proud of producing a Marshallite who gives promise of becoming an Olympic star.

Platt Bullard, Captain

Platt holds the record for the 880 and is co-holder for the mile record at Central High. He also holds the state record for the 880-yard run. He was high scorer last year for John Marshall with a total of 70 points.

Bill Bowen, hurdler and javelin thrower, won second place with a score of 41 points. Charlie Peterson, outstanding dash man, totaled 36 points. Tommy Baker, that "plugging miler," scored 21 points. Studie Conrad, with the shot put, scored 21 points. Wickey Black, with shot put and discus massed a total of 23 points. Tommy Garvin, high jumper, went 5 feet 8 inches for the Justices, and John Dew, broad jumper, covered 20 feet, 5.5 inches.

Our squad showed up well in the running events, but was rather weak in the field events. In the triple meet with Maury and the William and Mary Freshmen, John Marshall took third place. The Freshmen totaled 75.75 points, Maury, 29.75 and John Marshall, 27 points. The Justices redeemed themselves by taking the first three places in all the sprint events when they defeated St. Christopher's, 70 to 38.

At the Tidewater Meet, in competition with Maury, Woodrow Wilson, Newport News, South Norfolk and Hampton, John Marshall won second place. Maury won the cup with a score of 40.5 points to John Marshall's 36.5. Platt Bullard won first place in the 880 and the mile. Tommy Baker won second place in the mile.

The Randolph-Macon Freshmen were outclassed by John Marshall by a score of 34 to 80. Bill Bowen was high man totaling 15 points. However, the University of Richmond Freshmen defeated John Marshall 78 to 39, taking 10 first places and making clean sweeps in three events. Bullard as usual ran away with first places in his events.

At Charlottesville, in competition with the Class A high schools of the State, John Marshall took second place. Bullard broke the record for the half mile, doing it in 2 minutes, .2 seconds. The John Marshall relay team, Baker, Alsop, Peterson, and Overton, lowered the time for the relay record by .3 seconds.

At Central High, the final meet of the year, John Marshall won third place in competition with the larger prep schools of the State, Charlotte, N. C.; Washington, and Baltimore. Bullard won the 880 and the mile. The relay team took second place. This was the largest meet of the year with the keenest competition.

Hockey, 1931

THE 1931 Girl Reserve Hockey Team fought hard to uphold the records of the previous years. While not as many games were played this year as last, the team showed a decided improvement. This was due largely to the coaching of Miss Katherine Tyler.

The opening game of the season was played with St. Catherine's who gained a victory over John Marshall, 2 to 0. The whole St. Catherine's team outplayed the Marshallites, who needed more practice in stick work, in team work, and in passing.

Next, the team met and defeated the Collegiate Sophomores, 4 to 0. They had seen their deficiencies in the first game, and had improved. In this game, the Marshallites showed splendid team work.

For a few weeks, practicing took all the time and attention. New passes were tried, stick work was improved. The team was learning to play much better hockey.

Westhampton Freshmen walked away with a victory of 5 to 0. There were no particularly good plays made by John Marshall, but Westhampton displayed excellent passing.

More practicing—and then—the big game of the season with Maury in which the John Marshall girls won, 5 to 1. Here, the value of coöperation was proven to the utmost.

Under the skillful leadership of Captain Bessie Whitworth, the Girl Reserves had a very successful year. The team put forth its best, and worked, not only for victory, but for the love of the game, and for good sportsmanship, the ultimate aim of any athletics.

Girls' Basketball, 1932

UNDER the direction of Mrs. Wood, the squad has had a very successful season. We were greatly encouraged by the response of the new girls. In order to give everyone a chance to play on a team, four teams were arranged for intramural contests. The day before Christmas holidays, Cathedral High had Play Day with us. During the holidays we played the alumnae.

After the holidays, excitement ran high, for the two squads were to be picked. The John Marshall Team, the representative one for the school, was captained by Charlotte Montgomery and managed by Bessie Whitworth. The players were: Edith Deyerle, guard; Mary Moore McLaughlin, jumping center; Louise Taylor, letter girl, and side center; Charlotte Montgomery, letter girl, and forward; Louise Royer, guard; Ellen Holman, forward; Elizabeth Poston, forward;

Virginia White, Squad Manager

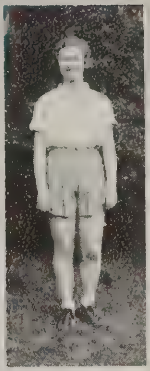
Elizabeth Poston

Margaret Bowers



Dora Mazer

Dora Mazer, guard; Elna Lowenthal, forward; Anne Peple, side center; Marion Wells, Beatrice Radman, Bessie Whitworth and Virginia Hall, guards; and Margaret Bowers, forward.

The rest of the girls formed the High School Squad, which played five games and won three of them. This squad served as the reception committee for the John Marshall Squad.

At the close of the season monograms were awarded to Charlotte Montgomery,

Girls' Track 1931

Miss Esther McMillan, Coach

THE 1931 season was the first one in which the John Marshall girls have entered into the field of track. Miss Esther McMillan of the Y. W. C. A., our coach, was largely responsible for the successful season.

During the season four meets were held. St. Catherine's defeated John Marshall, 43 to 12. The Marshallite team triumphed over William and Mary Extension, 42½ to 12½. The Westhampton freshman nosed out a victory, 35 to 31. The John Marshall team was victorious over Maury High at Camp Oasis, 35 to 27½.

The Archery Club

Miss Charles Anthony, Sponsor

LED by Laila Wheary, president, Miss Charles Anthony, sponsor, Eleanor Whitehead, secretary, and Mary Virginia White, treasurer, the John Marshall Archery Club has completed another successful year.

Practice was held at the Highland Park Playground in the fall and at Frances Nenzel's private range in the spring.

During the spring, several social parties were held, the most outstanding being a "tacky" party. Interest and rivalry was felt in a tournament within the club to determine each member's place on the archery "ladder."

All for $2.98!

THE JOHN MARSHALL LITERARY-ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION, better known around school as the $2.98 plan, was started last September.

The whole school buzzed with the news that, by paying $2.98, each student could receive the "Monocle," the school newspaper, for a year; six issues of the "Record," John Marshall's literary magazine, and a ticket to every home game of football, basketball, and baseball played during the year. It was most unbelievable, and in a depression year, too!

In February, $2.98's little brother, $1.49, came to John Marshall. He was welcomed with as much pomp as his elder relative and had a song written in his honor besides.

Before the $2.98 plan was started, Marshallites had to subscribe to the "Record," the "Monocle," and the Athletic Association, and then buy tickets to the games, which cost them over $8.00.

Perhaps even more pupils will take advantage of this plan if it is offered them again next year. But be that as it may, the Scotch members of the class will be glad to remember "All for $2.98!"

Thanksgiving Celebration

ON NOVEMBER 25, the students of John Marshall observed the oldest, and one of the most beautiful customs of the school, the Thanksgiving offering.

Just as John Marshall pupils have done for many, many years, each home room and social club decorated and filled a basket, each one trying to make its basket more beautiful than any of the others.

Stunts accompanied each basket as it was brought to the stage and set among the others in all its bright crêpe paper glory amid the applause of the student body. Very original stunts they were, too. The electric shop shot a real live turkey from the stage, and one home room had a small boy with a large box of oatmeal ask for assistance; when the rescuer lifted the oatmeal, he found that he had thirty-two boxes instead of one.

The stage groaned under the load of fruits, groceries, ducks, turkeys, and decorations which were to be sent to the charitable institutions of the city, such as the orphanages, the City Home, and the Crippled Children's Home.

When the gifts were all presented, the student body sang the school song to the accompaniment of the ever welcome Cadet Corps Band and left school to enjoy the longed for holiday much happier because they had celebrated Thanksgiving in the last sense of the word, the "giving" sense, and knew that their gifts would bring both joy and thanks to those who had received them.

"Christmas in IX"

"CHRISTMAS IN IX" was the very unusual title of the very unusual play which was given by the Senior Class on December 23. The play was written by Treville La Touche, a Marshallite, a fact which made it even more interesting to John Marshall pupils.

Treville La Touche played the leading role of the king, while Alice Percival, Jean Faulkner, Joe Davis, Billy Yonker, Edmund Turner, Garnett Smith, Frances Bates, and Elizabeth English were the lords and ladies of the court. Typical courtiers they were, too, "yes-yes-ing" everything the king said.

Mason Pace, with his long-tailed coat, made a very winsome poet. Six very cute little pages, dressed in red and white, called the court to order with the loud blasts of their tin horns.

John Mitchell, as the prime minister, and William Hoofnagle, as the chancellor, amused the audience with their incessant quarreling.

In this play, our school teachers were the children of Ix, and very bad ones, too, for they cried so constantly that the King of the Moon sent his messenger, none other than Alvin Taylor with his head encased in a shoe box, to warn the people of Ix that he would make war if the crying did not cease. Margaret Van Oot, in the guise of a witch, brought in Santa Claus, or Griffin Garnett in everyday life, by means of a magic spell. He saved Ix by the application of sugar candy to the children's mouths just as 3:00 o'clock, the time for the senior dance, arrived.

Washington Bi-Centennial Observance

THE CADET CORPS, resplendent in its spotless full dress, assembled on the lawn as the whole student body came out to see the Science Club plant an elm tree in honor of George Washington.

While the corps and the school stood at attention, the John Marshall Band began the ceremony by playing "America."

Miss Loulie Kelley, the sponsor of the Club, then introduced the master of ceremonies, Cabell Boothe, who welcomed the visitors and officiated during the rest of the ceremony.

A most appropriate poem, "Trees," was recited by Jean Faulkner, after which Eleanor Whitehead, the president of the Science Club, presented the tree. In her speech she told of Washington's association with trees and of his love for them. She also compared Washington's life to a tree and expressed the wish that whenever a Marshallite looked at the memorial tree, he would feel gratitude to Washington for the establishment of our great country.

In his acceptance, Mr. Harwood replied: "I am glad to see this memorial take the form of a living thing, because the qualities of the man whom we honor are and will remain living realities. Virtue, valor, rectitude, courtesy, patriotism—these are the qualities that made Washington the great man that he was, and these are the living virtues that we honor today when we plant this memorial tree."

Mr. Harwood threw in the first shovel of dirt and was followed by Eleanor Whitehead and all the members of the Science Club. The ceremony ended with the band playing "The Star-Spangled Banner."

James O'Flaherty Overton Jones Francis McClanahan William Ramkey

"Mr. Chairman, Ladies . . . ."

ON TUESDAY, March 15, and Wednesday, March 16, the annual debate between the girls and boys of John Marshall was held. The question was, "Resolved: That the future prosperity of the South lies in legally regulated industry."

On Monday, Rosalie Bates and Mary Frances McClanahan upheld the affirmative, and Griffin Garnett and Overton Jones took the negative. The judges rendered their decision in favor of the affirmative.

On Tuesday, William Ramkey and James O'Flaherty took the affirmative, while Eleanor Whitehead and Myrtis Elliot upheld the negative side of the question. Again the judges favored the affirmative.

From these exciting preliminaries, the team, composed of William Ramkey, James O'Flaherty, Overton Jones, and Mary Frances McClanahan, was chosen to represent John Marshall.

The intra-mural debates culminated on Friday, April 22, when the affirmative team defeated the negative team before a large, enthusiastic audience. Accompanied by their mascot, Archibald Percival Socrates John Marshall, a small turtle, the John Marshall affirmative team journeyed to Petersburg, Tuesday, April 26, and defeated their opponents. On the same morning the negative was defeated by a visiting Petersburg team.

Mr. Grady Garrett and Miss Mary Richeson, sponsor of the Van Vort Debating Society, with the assistance of Miss Eva Branch, the head of the English Department, coached the team. All these coöperated with the team most heartily.

Four Reasons

Why You Should Insure While You Are Young

1. Because Insurance Will Cost You Less
2. Because You Are Insurable Now
3. Because Insurance Establishes a Definite Savings Program
4. Because It Will Make You Independent
